Trauma Informed Care: Children, Youth and Families Shaping Best Practice

The National Federation of Families for Children's Mental Health announces "Trauma Informed Care: Children, Youth and Families Shaping Best Practice" as the theme for its 22nd annual conference. We strongly believe that the experience of families can provide the foundation for best practice in creating trauma-informed care.

Trauma Focus

This conference will address the complex issue of trauma; the impact it has on children and families; the promotion of healing and prevention strategies; knowledge about how to address trauma through resiliency-based interventions, utilizing a family-driven, youth guided approach; and examples of how family organizations and the partners they work with are raising awareness and improving trauma-focused services and supports.

The National Federation is committed to shining a spotlight on these issues, lending support, and identifying workable solutions and promising practices.

There will also be presentations that focus on:

- Descriptions of outcome data that support parent-to-parent and youth peer support.
- Developing and sustaining family and youth run organizations.
- Family organization strategies for navigating budget cuts in creative and sustainable ways.

PLUS!

Youth Focus

A great opportunity for youth to learn more about national youth involvement efforts or join the fun in the youth track and develop hidden gifts and talents!

IDEA Training & Resource Room

It's not just knowing the law. You've got to know how to apply it! Dixie Jordan, IDEA expert, will be available all weekend for individual consultations

Great entertainment, a fabulous auction and more!
